FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS ABOUT MEDICAL AID IN DYING

Medical Aid in Dying Authorized in 6 States
Oregon, 1994 by ballot initiative
Washington, 2008 by ballot initiative
Montana, 2008 by court ruling
Washington, DC's Death with Dignity law went into effect on February 18, 2017.

The Evidence from Oregon
Since Oregon's Dignity Law passed in 1997:
• 1,749 received prescription
• 1,127 took the medication
• 622 didn't (35.5%)
• Of those who have used Oregon's Death with Dignity law:
  – 93.4% died in their own homes
  – 90.2% enrolled in hospice
  – 93% involved family in their decisionmaking

There has been no attempt to amend, fix, or expand medical aid in dying legislation since adoption of the original Oregon model, in place for over 20 years.

Aid in Dying Improves End of Life Care for Everyone
Each year, the Center to Advance Palliative Care releases a "report card" – how states are doing in terms of access to palliative care in America's hospitals. 4 out of 5 of the states where Aid in Dying is authorized received an "A." New York received a B with 78.1 points. We can do better.

Do People Living with Disabilities Oppose Aid in Dying?
People living with disabilities support the notion that individuals should have the right to choose aid in dying by clear majorities, and often in the same percentages as the general voting population. (2014 Purple Poll of voters in MA, NJ, and CT; Harris Poll 2001). There is an increasing level of support among people living with disabilities and the organizations that represent them:
• Disability Rights Legal Center
• Legislative Coalition for People with Disabilities supports Utah’s End of Life Options Act

What about People of Faith?
74.8% of New York voters who identify as Catholic support aid in dying, and even among those who attend church weekly or more than once a week, that number was still 61%. Over 2 dozen diverse faith leaders have signed on to a letter in support of the legislation to NY lawmakers, with more joining every week. When Governor Jerry Brown, a Catholic who had trained as a Jesuit priest, signed CA’s End of Life Options Act, this is what he said:

“In the end, I was left to reflect on what I would want in the face of my own death. I do not know what I would do if I were dying in prolonged and excruciating pain. I am certain, however, that it would be a comfort to be able to consider the options afforded by this bill. And I wouldn’t deny that right to others.”
A Majority of New Yorkers and Doctors Support Medical Aid in Dying as an Option
In a 2015 Eagle Point Strategies poll of 1,000 randomly selected New York State voters, 77% said they supported allowing individuals to choose aid in dying; when they learned more about the pending legislation, that number grew to 81%. Support held steady across region, religion, and party affiliation.

Responding to a MedScape survey of 17,000 physicians, doctors responded to the statement: “Patients with an ‘incurable and terminal’ disease should have the option to choose death with dignity, also known as the medical practice of aid in dying” in the following way:
